quality printing techniques

All of our products are printed using the following methods. We can advise on the best print techniques to achieve your desired effect.

Digital UV Printing

Digital UV printing works with cyan, magenta, yellow, black and white ink to reproduce millions of different colours and shades enabling photographic images, fine detail and smooth gradients to be reproduced onto various products which have a flat profile. Full colour images can be reproduced onto plastic, metal, glass, wood and card. Digital printing is a more eco-friendly option as the process produces less waste compared to traditional screen or pad printing.

Pad Printing

A fast and popular method of printing that can be used on many different surfaces. Most items pictured in our catalogue have been printed by this method and can be printed in up to two colours. If you would like additional colours please contact us as this is often possible but it is subject to sight of artwork. Pad printing is effective both on plastic and metal although we cannot guarantee ink adhesion on all metal surfaces.

Dome Decal

A dome label is simply put, a sticker with a protective resin coating. The look of the resin gives an eye catching 3d effect to the label making it a very popular choice to ensure your product and brand stand out. Dome decal labels can be cut to any shape.

Laser Engraving

The design is burnt into the surface of the item to ensure an accurate representation of the artwork and a permanent high quality finish. Our engraving uses a unique technique which engraves each line from edge to edge to maintain the integrity of the design. The colour of the engraving is determined by the colour of the material under the surface.

Embossing

The design is stamped into the material using a special metal block resulting in a permanent indentation and a smoothing of the grain to create the logo. Embossing is used on leather or PU. Not all products are suitable for embossing due to their shape or size.

Transfer Printing

Heat transfer printing prints the pattern onto paper with carefully selected dyes. The paper is then applied to the fabric by applying heat and the pattern is transferred from one to the other.

Embroidery

Artwork is converted into digital form for embroidery machines to use. Embroidery creates a long lasting, high quality look for your logo.

quality artwork specifications

In order to achieve the best possible finish on your product we request that you supply artwork to the following specifications. If you have any problems regarding artwork please don't hesitate to contact us.

Digital Formats

Digital artwork is to be supplied in Creative Suite Adobe Illustrator or Adobe Photoshop. Where possible please supply vectorised AI or EPS files. Other formats may be acceptable, subject to sight of artwork, however these may incur an artwork charge.

Pantone Colours

Artwork should be supplied with specific Pantone reference numbers. Where possible please let us know the fonts used and forward them along with your artwork.

Proofs Online

You will receive accurate online proofs with all orders. If required, we can produce additional pre-production samples of all items once printed. Pre-production samples incur an extra charge.
